Music, My Life

A Gallimaufry of Musical Memories

'The heart-warming story of a bright Yorkshire lad's 50-year journey from aspiring singer to much-loved broadcaster, choral conductor and national treasure. Every anecdote is a gem, and by the end the world seems a sunnier place.'

JOHN RUTTER

Brian Kay is a lucky man who has spent his entire working life in a rewarding and successful career as musician and broadcaster. His fascinating collection of memories and anecdotes throws a hugely entertaining light on a life entirely devoted to the joy of music and music-making. Starting as the founder bass with the internationally renowned vocal group, The King's Singers, for 15 years, he then joined the BBC as presenter and host of many programmes, ranging from his own Brian Kay's Sunday Morning to Melodies for You. He moved back to the concert hall, conducting choral and orchestral concerts worldwide, including the annual 4000-voice Really Big Chorus Messiah from Scratch in London's Royal Albert Hall. He has been the lowest frog on a Paul McCartney single and a member of the backing group for Pink Floyd! Brian Kay recounts his fascinating life in intimate and amusing detail, sharing with us his great love of life and his abiding passion for music.

'This book has achieved the impossible: it is as charming, as witty, as winsome and good-natured as its author. We can all share in this wonderful life full of music.' ANNE ATKINS

'A delightful read, which will bring enormous pleasure to the many musicians who have worked with him, and to countless other readers who have not had that great fortune.' JANE GLOVER

Brian Kay was a choral scholar at King's College, Cambridge and has enjoyed three distinguished international careers as singer, broadcaster and conductor. He is married to the soprano Gillian Fisher, has a son, a daughter and three grandchildren, and lives in the Cotswolds, Oxfordshire.
